

1867 Pacific Coast Business Directory

Lakeport

Is pleasantly situated on the west bank of Clear Lake. The place is reached from San Francisco via Calistoga, thence by stage sixty-five miles, over which route a tri-weekly mail is carried. It is also connected by stage and mail with Cloverdale, in Sonoma County. The lands of the valley and surrounding hills contributory to Lakeport are well adapted to agriculture and grazing, furnishing a constant and increasing resource; but the distance from market and the absence of railroad communication, are great drawbacks to the producers. This is a pleasant resort for visitors seeking health and pleasure, boating, , fishing, and duck shooting on the lake, and quail and deer-shooting in the hills, offer tempting invitations to the sportsman. One newspaper, the Clear Lake Courier, is published weekly.

Farley, Mrs. S., dressmaker and milliner

Chapman, Mrs. S. B., hotel proprietress

Clear Lake Courier, J. H. F. Farley, publisher

Cohn, H., general merchandise

Compton, Rev. H. N., clergyman

Crawford, Woods, attorney at law

Downes, J. S., physician

Elgin, G. D., physician

Farley, J. H. F, publisher Clear lake Courier

Forbes, William, wagonmaker

Gulley, Rev. W. T., clergyman

Ingram, Rev. J. W. C., clergyman

Kennedy, Romulus, justice of the peace and contractor

Levy, A., general merchandise

Mathes & Eackles, saloon

McCarty, A. P., attorney at law

Moore, Gawn, boot and shoe maker

Moore, S. H., saloon

O'Shea, John, saddle and harness maker

Ogle, Rev. Barton, clergyman

Parrish, James, blacksmith

Peabody, H. A., insurance agent

Phillips, W. S., general merchandise

Winchester, L. D., postmaster, agent Wells Fargo & Co. and druggist

Source: <http://www.cagenweb.com/lake/1867%20Pacific%20Coast%20Directory.htm>